BACKGROUND/HISTORY:

Belit was Conan's Greatest Love and the greatest tragedy of the Conan Saga. She was a Shemite princess turned pirate queen and pseudo goddess. She had hoped to amass enough wealth to reclaim her Shemite royal heritage. However, Belit was slain by an ancient winged ape.

PERSONALITY/MOTIVATION:

See Disadvantages.

POWERS/TACTICS:

Almost but not quite as good as Red Sonja with a sword but better with a knife/dagger.

CAMPAIGN USE:

Feared Pirate Pseudo-Goddess

APPEARANCE:

Belit sprang before the blacks, beating down their spears. She turned toward Conan, her bosom heaving, her eyes flashing. Fierce fingers of wonder caught at his heart. She was slender, yet formed like a goddess: at once lithe and voluptuous. Her only garment was a broad silken girdle. Her white ivory limbs and ivory globes of her breasts drove a beat of fierce passion through the Cimmerian's pulse, even in the panting fury of battle. Her rich black hair, black as a Stygian night, fell in rippling burnished clusters down her supple back. Her dark eyes burned on the Cimmerian. She was untamed as a desert wind, supple and dangerous as a she-panther.

20 years old, 5'9" 130 lbs. Black Hair, Brown Eyes.
